

OUR WORK IS IN PROGRESS

OPEN SOCIETY INSTITUTE-BALTIMORE
THE 2013 GRANTS
& DONORS LIST

THE VISION

WE HAVE A VISION OF A HEALTHY AND PROSPEROUS CITY, ONE THAT PROVIDES REAL OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL CHILDREN AND ADULTS, ESPECIALLY THOSE WHO LIVE IN POVERTY AND ARE HELD BACK BECAUSE OF RACIAL DISCRIMINATION.

We know it can happen. We see progress every day.

Open Society Institute-Baltimore was created in 1998 to find answers to problems that have challenged numerous urban centers, with the idea that many of the solutions found here could be transferable to other places around the country.

With an advisory board composed of the region's foremost leaders, practitioners, and scholars—and a staff of exceptional professionals who are leaders in their fields—we analyzed the root causes of Baltimore's problems. From there, we identified three interconnected issues that must be addressed in order to build a thriving city that allows all of its residents full voice and opportunity.

Even then we knew that big change for Baltimore takes a combination of audacious ideas, pragmatic solutions, and persistence.

We continue today, working to create a different city. We use a broad set of tools—grantmaking, education, advocacy, technical assistance and investment—to take promising solutions to scale. Together with community partners and policy makers, we are witnessing significant progress in areas that were considered unsolvable. Right now, a more equitable future for all is developing before us.

WE KNOW IT CAN HAPPEN.

WE SEE PROGRESS EVERY DAY.

TO MAKE THIS VISION A REALITY

WE HELP YOUTH

stay connected to and engaged with school and on the road to success.

WE TACKLE DRUG ADDICTION

by making treatment readily accessible.

WE REDUCE INCARCERATION

for youth and adults, curtailing the damage to families and the spiraling costs of prisons and jails.

WE BUILD A GROWING CORPS OF INDIVIDUALS

working on the ground, directly with the community. Over the past 15 years, we have supported the ingenuity of more than 140 Baltimore Community Fellows—dedicated social entrepreneurs and visionaries. Fellows change lives every single day.

AUDACIOUS THINKING FOR LASTING CHANGE.

WE HAVE IDENTIFIED THREE INTERCONNECTED ISSUES THAT HAVE CHALLENGED BALTIMORE'S PROGRESS. WE ARE ACTIVELY PURSUING SOLUTIONS THAT WILL WORK.

THE DRUG ADDICTION TREATMENT PROGRAM WORKS TO

- Close the addiction treatment gap for low-income patients by taking advantage of the opportunities of health care reform.
- Support the availability of addiction services not covered by health care reform.
- Decrease the harms of drug use, create more access to appropriate and innovative treatment, and reduce stigma associated with addiction.

THE BALTIMORE COMMUNITY FELLOWSHIPS PROGRAM CONTINUES TO

- Recruit, select and support dynamic, resourceful and committed social entrepreneurs to become Baltimore Community Fellows.
- Build an active corps of individuals committed to revitalizing underserved neighborhoods by providing resources for a growing Community Fellows alumni body, now over 140 individuals.

THE EDUCATION AND YOUTH DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM AIMS TO

- Keep children connected to school: pre-k through high school graduation.
- Assure that every child attends school every day.
- Support reform efforts to create new schools.
- Expand opportunities for learning when school is not in session.

THE CRIMINAL AND JUVENILE JUSTICE PROGRAM SEEKS TO

- Reform discriminatory arrests, pre-trial detention, parole and probation policies to reduce Baltimore City's pre-trial detention population and Maryland's prison population.
- Advance policies and practices, including adequate public funding, for the successful re-entry of people with criminal and juvenile records.

WE AIM TO BE THE CHANGE THAT

STARTS SOMETHING.

WHAT DOES CHANGE MEAN FOR BALTIMORE

WORKING IN PARTNERSHIP WITH THE PRIVATE AND PUBLIC SECTORS, WE CATALYZE, AND TAKE TO SCALE, LASTING CHANGE IN BALTIMORE EVERY DAY.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THIS PAST YEAR INCLUDE:

TACKLING DRUG ADDICTION

- A program training primary health care professionals allows for the early identification of addiction and referral to treatment and integrates addiction treatment into whole health care for all patients regardless of insurance status.
- As Maryland begins to implement health care reform, advocates are working for a comprehensive addiction treatment benefit that will be available to all in need.
- Our advocates continue to increase the availability of addiction treatment by training health professionals to bill public and private insurance providers, a skill that will become increasingly important under health care reform.

KEEPING KIDS CONNECTED TO SCHOOL

- Our work to help the Baltimore City school district reduce suspensions continues to pay dividends. Suspensions fell to the lowest level in 20 years, and graduation rates rose—particularly among African American boys—making Baltimore a national leader in this positive trend.
- The Maryland State Board of Education, taking its lead from our work in Baltimore City, is changing state discipline regulations to end racial disparities in school suspensions.
- Our grants have provided start up money for the Baltimore Education Coalition and have funded the efforts of the ACLU and Advocates for Children and Youth that resulted in a billion dollars to build and renovate dozens of city schools.

BALTIMORE COMMUNITY FELLOWS

- A drop-in center for homeless youth is now open in Charles Village where young people can get basic needs met, develop supportive relationships with peer counselors and allies, and find resources for long-term stability.
- In two Maryland prisons, theater is now offered as a tool to navigate conflict without violence, create healthy relationships, develop effective communication skills and, ultimately, prevent recidivism.
- Middle school students in four Baltimore schools are participating in creative writing workshops and summer camps led by Johns Hopkins students. The program provides a safe space for kids to express themselves and boosts reading skills.

TALKING ABOUT RACE

- Responding to historical and ongoing discrimination and segregation in our city and state, our public conversations about race continue in venues such as the library, theaters and art galleries and on the radio.

REDUCING THE USE OF INCARCERATION WITHOUT COMPROMISING PUBLIC SAFETY

- The advocacy and public education efforts of our grantees contributed to a reduction in the number of youth who were charged as adults and locked up at Baltimore City's adult jail. Approximately 40 youth were held at the city jail in 2013, compared to over 100 in 2009 when we launched our campaign to end the automatic prosecution of youth as adults.
- Our grantee and state agency partners have successfully argued for the release of over 50 people serving life sentences after a Maryland Court of Appeals decision held that jury instructions recited during their criminal trials were unconstitutional. These individuals, many of whom had been incarcerated for decades and are now senior citizens, have successfully returned to communities around the state; they are being supervised by parole and probation agents and receive support from social workers and re-entry organizations.
- Maryland's historically high prison population is gradually decreasing, in part because of our partnership with the Maryland Parole Commission, which resulted in the creation and use of parole guidelines that appropriately release people who are unlikely to reoffend.

WE'RE COMMITTED TO SPARKING

INNOVATION

THAT LASTS.
